George will also give a culture session and provide the plant table.

I'll be meeting our speaker at Mimi's cafe at 5:30 PM the night of our meeting and would like to encourage anyone to attend who can swing the logistics of an extended evening. I don't need prior confirmation, the cafe is usually empty at that time and should have no difficulty seating however many should show up. If you can make it, simply show up. We'll go Dutch, don't forget your credit card.

Installation Luncheon and Picnic

Mark your calendars for Saturday
June 18th, 2011

We are mixing it up a bit this year! In lieu of our regular sit-down-dinner style Installation Banquet, the Board has decided to host a picnic luncheon at the South Coast Botanic Garden for our annual Board Member Installation.

- ◆ Place: South Coast Botanic Garden, convening at the Koi Pond.
- ◆ When: Starts at 10:30am. This will give everyone time to wander around and possibly hop on the garden's one-hour tram tour that starts at 11am. Please note that the tram tour cost $4/per person and the tickets have to be purchased in cash at the admission window prior to entering the garden.
- ◆ Food: Lunch is served at 12:30pm back at the Koi Pond.
- ◆ Cost: $10.00 per person; our Society will pay for the balance. Admission to the Garden is FREE with your SBOS member badge, so don't forget to wear it proudly!

This society outing will be a super relaxed fun and a great opportunity to socialize with old friends and maybe make some new ones. We have this gem of a venue right in our backyard, so let's make the best of it and gather for a day of exploration, socialization and good food. Sign up with me at our May meeting, call 310.897.8085 or email kayo at Libiano dot com.

Hope to see everyone there!

Space Between the Shade Cloth and the Top of the Greenhouse

Everyone knows that one must leave ample space between the uppermost shade cloth and the top layer of the greenhouse. This allows air circulation, helps prevent the buildup of heat and keeps the interior from overheating in the extreme summer heat. The only debate is whether 1 1/2" is good enough or if you need 2". To have the two too close together invites disaster and leads to plants being cooked in a cauldron similar to the center of the sun.

I built my greenhouse two feet away from the main house. The wise and honorable city fathers of Lakewood informed me that this is too close as some of the more corpulent firefighters could not squeeze through that space in an emergency, four feet is the minimum the regulations call for. I made plans to rebuild it and discovered that if I attached it to the house that was OK. Two feet is unacceptable but zero feet is no problem. The wondrous workings of the bureaucratic mind never cease to amaze me. It was explained to me that the regulations refer to a space. Even 3" is a space and the rules kick in. If the GH is attached to the house, there is no space and the 'minimum required space rules' don't come into play. Go figure!

Shade cloth from p. 6

This idiocy however got me thinking and I wondered if the same concept applies to the space between the top two layers of a greenhouse. If there is no space that can over heat and needs to be ventilated, do the rules of the game change. Laying the shade cloth right on the top layer of the GH would eliminate the space which one is concerned about.

I ran that concept past a major grower and found to my surprise that they had had their shade cloth right on the top layer of the GH without problem for years.

Of course, I'm not going to use conventional shade cloth which really dates you; Aluminet is much superior and most modern growers use that instead of the old black stuff. It has two major advantages: 1) It repels heat where the black plastic accumulates heat. 2) The light is diffused and the amount of blockage stays exactly the same as the sun moves from east to west. The black cloth blocks more and more light as the sun is low on the horizon and only works, for example, at 63% level during the middle portion of the day increasingly blocking more as the sun either rises or sets.

Summing it up, if Aluminet is used, there is no need to leave a space under it, just lay it right on top of the Lexan or what ever it is you are using for the GH wall. Easier to construct and gives more space inside. Don't really know if the same applies to the black plastic.

Ahnuld is convinced and will cover his Brentwood house with Aluminet.
